FYI - The Intergovernmental Technical Review Team will be meeting in Anchorage August 9th and 10th. We are looking for travel dollars to help cover the tribal representatives travel. I suppose you might see a request from one of your tribes to cover this with IGAP if EPA doesn't find any funding or can't cover the entire cost.

I will let you know what I find out.

In the meantime here are the list of tribal reps who will be serving on the team. Richard Parkin is still waiting to hear back from Koliganek and Levelock about their selection. Once I have names I will share them with you.

If you have any questions please let me know.

Thanks - Tami

Subject: SAVE THE DATES: Bristol Bay Watershed Assessment Intergovernmental Meeting

EPA is planning to have a meeting of the Bristol Bay Intergovernmental Technical Team on August 9 and 10 in Anchorage. The EPA team is looking forward to meeting with scientists and Tribal representatives, giving you an update on the watershed assessment, and receiving your scientific and traditional knowledge input. A more formal invitation, along with an agenda, location information, and materials will be sent to you soon. If you have any questions about the meeting in the meantime, please let us know. You can contact one of the following EPA staff:

Sheila Eckman (contact info below)
Phil North, 907-714-2483, north.phil@epa.gov
Tami Fordham, 907-271-1484, forham.tami@epa.gov
